

punkAdelic soundwaves from inner Copenhagen to outer space
BRAND NEW EP RELEASE
five sparkling and spaceOlicious tracks

This is a report from the last human colony in Antarctica 2099

From Copenhagen HalfCutLemon break through the atmosphere with 5 fresh asteroids of extra-terrestrial rockmusic gathered on the EP "This Galaxy is ours!"

*Have YOu heard the rumours about the fire people of Sahara
They dance around like flames, they dance around like flames*

Hailing from the danish punk scene of the late 70's the 4 members of HalfCutLemon met in 2014, after years in empty space and sending out soundwaves of improvised electronica to return to their roots and deliver a wall of sound never heard before:

With the help of sound engineers Troels Alsted together with Peter Kyed and Peter Peter (who helped the about 30 years younger iceage gather momentum) the 4 mature astronauts put 4 selfmade songs into orbit, along with their tribute to krautrock: their own version of "It's a rainy Day (Sunsine Girl)" by Faust!

This galaxy is ours for the taking, and we feel no remorse

Inspired by ensembles like Wire, Pixies, Swans, Sonic Youth, and Tortoise the musical focus is on both noise, repetition, monotony, as well as the odd bridge thrown in at times, the songs going through different variations before coming to fruition in their final form

May HalfCutLemon be with you !
